About Aperia Technologies

Aperia innovates and delivers to make transportation safer, more efficient, and better for the environment. The company's Halo® Tire Inflator and related products improve road safety and fuel economy while reducing tire expenditures, downtime, and maintenance costs for commercial fleets. Aperia partners with tire manufacturers and fleets to offer industry-leading technology that gives our partners a competitive advantage. Headquartered in Burlingame, CA, Aperia has 59 employees, and 14 patents granted and in the works related to the Halo Tire Inflator, the world's leading automatic tire inflation solution for both tractors and trailers. For more information, visit http://www.aperiatech.com.

Leadership Team

- Josh Carter, Co-Founder & CEO
- Brandon Richardson, Co-Founder & CTO
- Ryan Holtan, VP of Finance & Business Development
- Pat Rezza, VP of Operations & Engineering
- Judith Monte, VP of Marketing
- Jan Mertens, VP of Sales
- Bryan Duggan, VP of Product

Aperia Facts at a Glance

- Founded by Josh Carter and Brandon Richardson in 2010
- Became world leader in tire inflation for combination tractor-trailers in 2015
- Operations in U.S. and Canada
- 59 full-time employees
- 14 patents granted and filed
- Halo Tire Inflator has than 1.3 billion cumulative on-road miles
- Recipient of all major trucking industry awards, including ATA Technical Achievement Award, HDT Top Product Award, Automotive News PACE Award Finalist, and CoolCalifornia Small Business Award.

Above are as of September 2017

Environmental Impact

If all 8 million tractors/trailers in the U.S. were equipped with the Halo Inflation System, it would have the following savings on the environment:

- Oil Consumption: 20 million barrels of oil/year
- Tire Waste: 5 million tires/year
- Carbon Emissions: 9 million tons CO2/year
- The CO2 savings from installing our product on every tractor and trailer in the U.S. is equivalent to removing 1.9 million passenger vehicles from the roads each year!

Contact Information

Media Contacts:
Judith Monte, VP of Marketing
248.842.7992
Judith.Monte@aperiatech.com

Christine Linder
314.650.7580
Christine@spokemarketing.com

Follow Us